IMMIGRATION GREAT HOPE FOR CANADA

Hon. Mr. Alexander, K.C.,
M.P., Grants Interview
to "Daily"

McGILL GRADUATE

Accompanying Lloyd George
on American Tour

"The Dominions have a better chance to obtain British settlers, and I feel that Canada is not taking advantage of this," said the Honorable Mr. Alexander K.C., M.P., for the City of London, and a member of Lloyd George's personal entourage, in the course of an interview granted to the "Daily" at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel Thursday morning. Mr. Alexander is a graduate of McGill, Arts '07, Law '10, and has been visiting Montreal for a few days before rejoining Mr. Lloyd George in the States.

He manifested great interest in his Alma Mater, and spoke in very warm terms of Sir Arthur Currie, for whom he has nothing but praise. He mentioned some of the professors, especially Dr. Leacock, who has done much to spread the fame of McGill during his tours. Mr. Alexander brought out the fact that he considers the present age to be one for the young men, and for that reason he thinks that the university can do much for the world if it takes an interest in world affairs.

Turning to his recollections of college days, he told of his enthusiasm for debating; this resulted in his winning the Gold Medal of the Literary and Debating Society in the year 1910. Mr. Alexander graduated from Law at a very youthful age, and as a result had to wait some time before being allowed to take his Bar examinations. When he did take them, he topped the list, and was immediately admitted to a well-known Montreal firm. He had considerable success, but his career was interrupted by the outbreak of the war. He joined the army, and became an Advocate-General.

Mr. Alexander made a very auspicious entry to his political life in England when he defeated the Leader of the Labor party and became the representative for the City of London. His advance has been continuous, and during the past few years he has attended most of the European conferences, including those at Versailles, Cannes and recently at Copenhagen. He spoke briefly of the Copenhagen conference, when delegates from 33 nations gathered in the ancient and wonderful palace there; the President of Sweden was chairman of the meetings, which lasted for over three weeks. The point which impressed Mr. Alexander was that all the nations represented looked to Great Britain and the British Empire as being the only power which has true sympathy with their various problems. Speaking of the visit of Mr. Lloyd George, he said:

SECRET PRACTICES HELD AT KINGSTON

General Opinion that McGill
Will Win

(Special to McGill Daily)

The Queen's Campus is alive with excitement and activity over to-day's Intercollegiate fixture. The McGill team arrived at full strength at 2 p.m. and took up quarters at the Frontenac Hotel. The tri-colour rosters gathered en masse last night for a last testing of lung capacity before cheering their heroes on the senior team to-day. The heat, "Boo-Hoo," strains with increased energy at his chain in anticipation of the special attention which will be paid him at the scene of the great struggle.

Both the McGill and Kingston teams had a brisk work-out yesterday afternoon. Signals were practiced and scrimmage tried. "Bones" Little and Robinson, of the Red and White are slightly indisposed, but are expected to be in good condition by this afternoon. The customary railbirds were greatly disappointed in finding closed doors at the practices which were held strictly in secret. It is the general opinion in Kingston that the McGill team will carry away a victory with them.

A dinner and dance is being arranged for tonight in honour of the visiting rugbyists.

UNION HOUSE COMMITTEE IS NOW ELECTED

Three Went in by Acclamation

KEEN INTEREST

Successful Candidates in Medicine Separated by a Single Vote

The election of representatives on the Union House Committee for the faculties of Medicine and Science, took place yesterday. Great interest was taken in the elections, the majority of undergraduates in both Sciences participating in the voting. It is estimated that over 95 percent voted in the Science elections, and nearly 90 percent Medical men cast votes, for their two representatives.

In Medicine the contest for first honours was extremely close McLean who received 211 votes beat O'Regan, the second man elected, by a solitary vote. Lanthier was the third candidate. Two men were also elected in Science, McNaughton and Dingman. McNaughton lead by a comfortable margin.

Interest also ran very high in the Faculty of Law, so much so that the ballot-box was stolen.

As a result of this heinous offence no election could be held in that faculty. The perpetrator of this appalling outrage has not been found, but sleuths are hot on his trail.

Everett of Arts, Grant of Dentistry, and Waite from Commerce were all elected by acclamation. The votes in the election were distributed as follows:—

Science. (two officers elected).
McNaughton 203
Dingman 165
Gilmour 113
Medicine. (two officers elected).
McLean 211
O'Regan 210
Lanthier 117

SOCIAL YEAR OPENED WITH MERRY DANCE

First Informal Was a Bewitching Event

RIOT OF COLOUR

Alluring Music Supplied by McGill Dance Orchestra

Last night in the Union Ball Room a happy throng of pleasure seekers sought refuge from the trials and tribulations of student life and found forgetfulness in the dreamy strains of melody and their bewitching partners. The first informal ushered in the Social Year with decided success from all viewpoints. Freshettes, Fresh, Sophettes, Sophs, Juniors, Juniors and even grave and revered Seniors and Seniors vied with each other in extracting the last bit of pleasure from an evening overflowing with mirth and melody, the latter being contributed in unsurpassed style by the McGill Dance Orchestra, whose offerings induced even the most reluctant feet to glide over the floor in perfect synchrony.

From one end of the room a smiling moon gazed down serenely on the heads of the dancers while at the other, a solemn old owl looked down in silent wonder at the strange scene while his eyes blinked away the dance numbers one by one.

Huge streamers of Red and White coupled with draperies of the same colours gave an added atmosphere to the proceedings while the dresses of the fair sex produced a riot of colour that converted the Ball Room into a veritable fairland.

At eleven o'clock the scene was transferred to the cafeteria where the colour scheme was just as tasteful as that of the Ball Room. Red and White streamers hung down from the lamps while the tables were covered with snowy white linen with a band of red. The waitresses wore costumes of white with red head bands. Daintily refreshments were served in both dining halls, the management excelling themselves in this respect. After supper the dancers made their way back to the Ball Room where the remainder of the evening was spent in joyful abandon and when the strains of the last encore had died away, the success of future events at the Union was fully assured.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyndale, Miss Hurlbatt of R.V.C., and Miss Edwards of R.V.C. performed the duties of chaperons. The following ladies were among those present:

Misses Brodie, Hird, D. Hutchison, M. Cameron, Alice R. Roy, Lois Owen, Marguerite Rexford, R. Williamson, Annie Smith, Gay Morrison, Dorothy McArthur, Jean McCordick, E. McTaggart, J. Voisard, T. A. Murphy, Mrs. Alex. Ree, Misses M. C. MacNaughton, Anita Brocker, Marguerite English, M. Sangster, M. Fish, Gene

THE ANNUAL BOARD ELECT HEAD EDITOR

The representatives from the various faculties to the Annual Board met yesterday afternoon at 5 p.m. in the Union reading room for organization purposes. There was a good turn out, twelve men being present. J. C. Packham, last year's editor-in-chief was in the chair. The first item of business was to elect an editor-in-chief. "Ted" Newton was unanimously elected to this office. The members decided not to elect any other officials until a larger number of representatives were present.

It was thought advisable to hold future meetings at 5 p.m. and the editor-in-chief stated that the date of the next meeting would be announced in the early future in the notice column of the daily. The meeting then adjourned.

The representatives present were as follows:—J. C. Lanthier, N. P. Hill, H. G. Pretty, Medicine, R. M. P. Hamilton, B. K. Bolton, Science, G. A. Woodcomb, J. C. Packham, K. A. Henderson, Commerce, H. Monro, D. A. Somerville, Dentistry, R. V. Fortune, T. F. M. Newton, Arts.

MONTREAL, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1923.

OUR ATHLETIC DUTY

"What is wrong with your teams at McGill? They never win anything." That is a question frequently asked of the college student by citizens of Montreal. We are quite sure this has been put to the majority of undergraduates—at least those of us who have friends in the city. But who is there who has not some friends here? On questioning our friends we find that they only talk about football and hockey. They are totally ignorant of the host of other sports that make up the intercollegiate schedule. Some don't even follow the track championship.

Where does the fault lie? We believe it is primarily with the student, for college spirit is weak, and we are prone to absent ourselves from these lesser-known games. We are content with merely reading the reports in the Daily. Now if we take upon our shoulders our duty to patronize all McGill athletic competitions, the larger attendance will call for larger accounts of such games in the local papers. Our friends will read more about our sporting competitions. Our friends will hear from us first-hand accounts of these sports. They will say to themselves if these sports are drawing all the college students they must be worth seeing and we shall see them ourselves. In short, patronage begins at home. So let us one and all, make strenuous, conscientious efforts to see more college games. If we make it known to the residents of Montreal what old McGill is actually doing in athletics we should not only be advertising our sporting prowess but we should materially boost the morale of our loyal sportsmen.

CONDENSED COMMENT

The first Informal of the season was a decided success. No other word will correctly describe the party. From the first to the last enjoyment reigned supreme. Because of the ruling of the Committee of Social Functions, there were only a few tuxedos seen. The great majority respected the wishes of those in charge and appeared in informal dress. The few men who did depart from the letter of the law, are asked in future to refrain from donning their best. If they do not do so, we shall know that something very vital is lacking in their general make-up.

The Union House elections were closely contested and there was a remarkable large percentage of voters in the Science elections, and in those of Medicine. In Law the ballot box was wafted away. The person, or persons, responsible may have thought that they were doing something particularly funny but it is hoped that they will be dealt with severely. Elections are not things to be taken as a joke.

George to Canada and the United States, he said that there were three main points which the former Premier was trying to bring out on this side of the water; first, to express Britain's thanks to Canada for her glorious part in the great struggle; second, to explain as fully as possible the present situation in Europe; lastly, to try and obtain the sympathy of the United States.

Then Mr. Alexander turned to the subject which he has most at heart—the welfare of Canada. "Canada," he said, "has a great future in store for it if it takes advantage of its present opportunities to increase its population with good British stock. Canada has a population of nine millions but it has all the facilities for supporting a population of fifty millions. There are ample railways, manufactures and agricultural advantages for such a number of people.

He told of the efforts of the British Government in favor of emigrations to the Dominions, and of Canada's apparent apathy in doing her share. Mr. Alexander concluded with a plea to McGill men to interest themselves in the affairs of their native land, lest Canada fail to build for the future.

AFTER HYGIENE

Ye gods! I'm full of microbes—
The idea makes me shiver;
They glide through my red blood and
Turn cartwheels on my liver.

If I should cut my finger now,
Or my nosephagus,
They'd shake hands all round and start
To manufacture pus.

If I caught cold they'd shout with glee
For then if I should sneeze
They'd go yawning forth to taint
The joyous Autumn breeze.

FEDERATED CHARITIES CAMPAIGN NEXT WEEK

As the students are probably aware, the Federated Charities are having the second Annual Financial Campaign from October 29th to November 3rd, and the support of all McGill men is requested.

Last year the members of the McGill staff contributed a very handsome total sum to the Federation of Social Agencies but unfortunately quite a number of the individual contributions were reported among the returns of specific districts of the City and as a result the McGill totals were considered less than the facts.

An attempt is being made this year to keep all McGill returns together, and a system is being arranged to make it possible to canvass nearly everyone in the University individually. Two or three men are to be appointed from each class and these will do their best to see every student.

The system of payments due in the next three months.

It is felt that a good sum will be realized this year and anyone who gives to this cause certainly could not be giving to a more worthy one.

Oh black plague germs, they live in flees,

Ten million microbes each camp out
In ordinary cats.

Mosquitoes love malaria—
They drag it in the house.

While typhus bugs find room and board
Within the festive lounge.

Oh we must know the facts, my boys,
We'll surely feel remorse
If we don't study hard in this
Damned nasty hygiene course.

RUGGER TEAM HAS LEFT FOR TORONTO

Today's Game Will Decide Championship

The McGill English Rugby team left Windsor Station last night for Toronto, where they will play the return match of the home-and-home series with Toronto. Last year, the latter defeated our men here, but as the McGill men are in great condition, and have much improved since their recent game with Montreal, they hope to wipe out last year's defeat. They still have a chance of winning the 1922-23 championship, as it is decided on total points scored in the two games.

Arrangements are being made to hold home and home matches each year, and this will be discussed at the dinner in Toronto, after to-day's match. McGill has guaranteed to support the agreement, which only needs Varsity's co-operation.

The following will be the line-up of the McGill team:

Forwards—Cleland, Walter, Wilson, Hart, Brown, Patterson, Blundell, MacOdrum.

Halfbacks—Benton, Wyse.

Three-quarters—Marpole, Macdonald, Legg, Holmes.

Back—McLeod.

resses smiled,
While he dined as he'd seen daddy do.

For he lived all alone in the great big hotel,
With his dad, who was rich as could be,
And sometimes his daddy was busy,
and then

He dined by his own self, you see!

He must have been twelve, not much older than that.

As he sat there, so young and so wise,

So wise in the knowledge of loneliness vast:

You could tell from the look in his eyes!

And I thought of our table at home every night.

With the noise and the laughter and joy,
And I wished I could gather him there with the rest,
And give him the life of a boy!

SENIOR SQUAD IS SET FOR TO-DAY'S GAME

All Players Fit to Enter Match at Kingston

WITH QUEEN'S

Many Supporters Set Out to Back Up Team

At ten o'clock this morning the McGill seniors boarded the train for Kingston. The party was about twenty strong and every man was feeling exceptionally fit for the grueling struggle which is to take place at the Queen's stronghold this afternoon. With bright weather yesterday and today the field ought to be in fairly good shape and as McGill has a team which could now make a fair showing on either a dry or a wet ground the score should be very much closer than in the previous contest.

Hanna, who for some time past has been unable to enter a game, will be given an opportunity to show what sort of stuff he is made of and if he delivers the same brand of rugby as he is reported to have shown in the Ontario Interscholastic Series the fans can look for a different result on the score-board. In practice he has shown some wonderful possibilities, his great speed being a decided asset to the McGill team. Hughes can be expected to show the same high class kicking as Philipotts will also be on the half line, along with Little, Murphy and Baker. McKelvey is slated for the quarter position which he so capably handled two weeks ago. The line will be composed of McGregor, Amaron, Starke, Woodruff, Manson, Gordon and Dier. Five is the probable selection for flying wing while Norris will be ready to substitute either for this position or that of snap. The outside wing berths will be divided amongst Wilson, Anderson, Robertson and McGillis the former starting first.

The Tri-Color squad will appear on the field at full strength also. The big question which will be answered this afternoon is whether McGill ends can stop the Batstone-Leadly-Mundell combination. If they can do this the sting will be taken from the Queen's team and with the offensive that the local squad has developed there is a good chance that McGill will rest on the heavy end of the score. Those who have been watching the Red and White at practice are very sanguine as to the outcome. The end runs are characterized by both speed and accurate passing and with the interference working more smoothly than it ever has before, many yards will be gained by this method. The line backs are still up to their former standard and coupled with the runs should prove very effective in advancing the ball up the field.

The team will not be altogether without material assistance from the rosters of McGill a large number of whom are taking advantage of the special rate which has been procured for their benefit. A coach is to be attached to the "International Limited" which leaves Bonaventure station at ten o'clock this morning. The rate is nine-fifty return.

The line-up of the two squads is as follows:

McGill	Queen's
Left Half	Mundell
Centre Half	Leadly
Right Half	Batstone
Flying Wing	Campbell
Quarter Back	Evans
Half Back	Snape
McGregor Capt.	Lewis
Right Inside	Delahay
Amaron	Muirhead
Starke	McKelvey
Manson	Loft Middle
Woodruff	Reynolds
Wilson	Walker
Anderson	Thomas
Hanna	Gibb
Baker	Baldwin
Murphy	McNeil
Gordon	Brown
Dier	McLeod
Norris	Adams

R.V.C. SPORTS AT STADIUM SUCCESSFUL

R. Turley Wins the Individual Championship

"SOPHS." VICTORY

Three Records Broken in Keen Competition

Yesterday for the second time, the R. V. C. Annual Sports were held at the Molson Stadium. The whole meet proved to be most successful, the events were run off without a hitch and the entire programme was arranged most efficiently. An important result of the meet was the breaking of three records. R. Turley, of second year, broke the 50 yards record of 7.3-5 secs., by running it in 7.1-5 secs. M. Dougall, also of second year, broke the record established last year for the Javelin throw which was 45 ft. 11 in. by throwing 52 ft. 4 ins. The 100 yards dash record of 14.2-5 secs. was broken by a freshman, M. Mullar who clipped off more than two seconds by running it in 12.1-5 secs.

The individual championship was won by R. Turley with a total of 16 points having made in excellent showing in four events.

The Sophomores proved to be the victors of the day winning the Inter-year Championship with a total of were not far behind with a total of Twenty-four points.

The weather was all that could be desired and the scene with the various class colours and red and white sweaters was most attractive. The presence of Sir Arthur Currie and Miss Hurlbutt among the students and spectators was much appreciated and though the number of spectators was not great the interest shown in the sports more than made up for this deficiency of numbers.

One of the features of the day was the Graduates Race. Sixteen former R. V. C. students hobbled on to the field in all their age and wisdom, and there strove with much effort to regain their youthful vim, vigor and vitality, their charming personalities, however, requiring no such restoration. It must be stated that the energy shown was quite surprising. Each contestant was presented with a dumb-bell, though no offence was meant, and a wand with which to pell it up the field. The race proved to be most revivifying and a very thrilling finish was staged. Miss J. Spier '21 overcame all obstacles and won amid the tremendous applause of an over-wrought gallery.

Another event also produced much merriment, namely the Running Broad Jump. To all appearances the heavy rains of the two preceding days had had little effect on the ground but after the first entrant of this field-event had taken off, a full realization of the deluge was evident.

One after another, the unfortunate contestants dragged themselves from the mire pit, only to discover, on reaching terra firma, that their shoes had remained behind them, and these were only restored after a diligent and dredging search.

A great measure of the success of the day was due to the splendid work of Miss Cartwright, and the judges and other officials including M. Pennington Sports Manager. The participants appreciated very much the coaching which was so kindly given them by Miss Cartwright, Miss Wain, and Miss Harvey, who gave up their valuable time for this purpose.

The use of the Stadium and Field House was also very much appreciated.

On this occasion all the judges and officials were composed of the staff and graduates students of the R. V. C.

HARRIER TEAM TO HOLD LONG DISTANCE RUN

Two Men From Last Year Out—New Material Promising

MOUNTAIN RUN

Beautiful Trophies Offered for First Six Places

The Inter-faculty Harrier Meet, which is to be held this afternoon, is expected to be one of the most keenly contested long distance runs that has been witnessed here for many years. This event will be a real test for those who hope to make the harriers this year and it is probable that the team will be picked from the first six or seven men to finish.

In addition to the chance of making the team, three cups and three medals, which are to be presented for the first six men, will prove an added stimulus. The cup for first place is to be kept permanently by the winner.

Although only two men, Wiggins and Egerton, remain from last year's team, the new material has improved greatly in the last week and is quite up to the standard of former years. Of the new men, Hart, Brain and Shin are showing up very well and no doubt will push the last year's men to the limit while Clement, Wade and several others may be depended on to run a strong race.

The competitors will start from the Stadium just before the commencement of the Intermediate football game between R. M. C. and McGill seconds, and after completing the cross-country part of the course will finish up with a lap and a half on the track. The run is approximately 5.6 miles.

The harrier team will be picked sometime during the coming week as the annual Intercollegiate meet with Varsity, Queen's and R. M. C. takes place at Toronto a week from today.

Varsity have two very good men from last year's team back again. These are Goforth who won first place last year and Shaw who finished third. No report on the material from the other colleges has been received yet and it seems as if Varsity and McGill will be the chief contenders for leading place.

CANADIAN MEET

Entries From Many Points of the Dominion

There was a large crowd out last night at the National A. A. A. to see the first half of the Canadian Swimming Championships. Clayton Bourne, J. B. Ross and George Vernot carried the McGill colours well in the men's races, as did Miss Joyce Plumtree in the ladies'. All the finishes were closely contested, and were very interesting to watch.

Perhaps the most interest was displayed in the 100 yds. race for men for the Canadian Championship, in which McGill took first and second place. Clayton Bourne won the race with the time of 59.1-5 secs. George Vernot made the record of 56.4-5 secs. for this race in 1920 in the same swimming tank. J. B. Ross swam in for second place, very close behind R. Carlton of M. A. A. A. took third place. There are three medals, a gold, a silver, and a bronze, for this event.

The 500 yd. race was an unique event because it was the first time the race had been swum indoors. Out of the six contestants only four swam the whole distance. George Vernot finished easily four laps ahead of the next man. He swam the 500 yds. in 6 mins. 45.1-5 secs. Young Munroe Bourne of M. A. A. A. came in second, and Gilday, also of M. A. A. A. took third place.

Miss Hazel Kessler of the Victoria Ladies' Swimming Club, Winnipeg, came first in the final of the 50 yd. race for ladies. Her time was 32.2-5 secs. Miss Joyce Plumtree of McGill was second, and Miss Kathleen Dalton of Ottawa was third.

Afterwards, the finals of the Junior 50 yd. race and the ladies' 100 yd. race were run. The remaining Championship events are to take place tonight at 8.30.

COLLEGE TENNIS MEN U. OF MONTREAL IN INDOOR CHAMPS

Crocker Morrice and Wright in Finals To-day

The McGill men came through with remarkable success in the indoor tennis championships.

Three McGill men, Crocker, Morrice and Wright played in the semi-finals yesterday, and of these, two, Morrice and Crocker won through to the singles finals. In the doubles finals, McGill is pitted against Montreal men.

The tennis displayed was altogether the best seen here for many years. Each match showed up individual brilliancy, in each case excellent play succumbed to more excellent play.

Crocker won his game with Vasey by steady work, though the latter played brilliantly all through. The Morrice-Wright clash was the most interesting of the three. In the first set Wright ran away with the points before Morrice got warmed up. The next set was even, Morrice just pulling through by two games. The third set showed Morrice at his best, playing a steady game, never letting Wright get the lead.

The parade is to form up at Vigor Square and to march to the University of Montreal building on St. Denis St. They will parade along St. Catherine St. and will stop before Dupuis Freres where a special entertainment will be given. They will then march via St. Denis, Sherbrooke, Park Avenue, to Fletcher's Field where speeches will conclude the evening below the Cartier monument. The parade will be specially guarded by the police.

MEDS. LOSE TO LAW IN CLOSE GAME

Inter-Faculty Rugby Produces Thrilling Contest

SCORE 7-6

Winning Touchdown Scored in Closing Minutes of Game

Yesterday on the campus Law defeated Medicine in an Inter-Faculty football game by the score of 7-6.

The score in every way is an indication of the play; the teams were evenly matched with the play being divided almost equally between the two teams. It is without doubt, the best game that has been played in Inter-Faculty football this year and was featured by exceptionally good line plunging together with a number of sensational end punts.

In this respect, by steady work and snappy passing Grassick and Chisholm of Medicine got away for long gains and were only prevented from scoring by the excellent tackling of the lawyers who showed up particularly well in this branch of the game.

The play saw up and down the field with neither side gaining a distinct advantage until Law scored a rouge on an outside kick when with in striking distance of the goal. At this time a keen discussion arose whether Law had scored a touchdown or only a rouge but Cope, the Referee, finally decided in favour of Medicine. This was the only score in the first half of the game, the point being made in the final minutes of the second quarter. Law scored another rouge in the third quarter but the first touchdown was made by Chisholm of Medicine, when he recovered his own kick behind the opposing team's goal posts, this being a particularly brilliant play which brought vociferous applause from the amateur doctors who lined the sidelines. The touch was converted, making the score 6-2 and with five minutes to go, things looked particularly dark for the lawyers. But here "Lady Luck" smiles down on the hard work of Law team and when the ball kicked by Medicine took an unfortunate bounce and struck one of their own players, Law secured possession on Medicine's 20 yard line and it proved to be the turning point of the game. They made yards and then with one minute to go, Abinovitch plunged over for a touch which was not converted making the score 7-6 in favour of Law. It was an exciting game, from start to finish and there was a large turnout of students to cheer the men along and who applauded vigorously and at all times. Everyone is urged to turn out to these games for in addition to the keen rivalry, there is some excellent football displayed.

Selby Cope and "Buster" Hampson handled the game in an efficient manner.

OPPORTUNITY TO JOIN TANK CORPS

Open to Men With Year's Shopwork Experience

The following has been received at McGill from the War Office, London, and will doubtless be of interest to some of the students.

It is proposed to accept candidates from the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, London, Edinburgh, Manchester and McGill for the Tank Corps under the conditions of the Provincial Regulations, 1920, as applicable to candidates for the Royal Engineers—with the additional provision that candidates before they can be commissioned can produce satisfactory evidence of having undergone a year's workshop training.

It is immaterial whether the year's workshop training takes place prior to, during or after the University

ENGINEER AND PHYSICIST IN TRANSMISSION

Many Physicists Heard Mr. J. Mills of New York

NEW MEMBERS

Subject: "Where the Physicist Stops and the Engineer Begins"

The Physics Society of McGill University met yesterday afternoon at five o'clock in the large lecture room of the Physics Building. Mr. John Mills, Personnel Director of the Engineering Department of the Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, was the principal speaker. His subject "Where the Physicist Stops and the Engineer Begins in the Communication Art" is one which has been receiving a great deal of attention in controversial and scientific circles to-day. Dr. O. Maass was in the chair, and first called for the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting. Outstanding business consisted of the election of new members, the following being elected:

Sievertz, Steacie, Mennie, Hunter, Chipman and Vorstman. Mr. Haskels of the Bell Telephone Company was also elected to the society.

After several references illustrating the current insurance concerning the physicist and his work, Mr. Mills went on to say that the communication art dealt very largely with physical problems. He then pointed out that there was a spiral connection between physical principles, their commercial possibilities and finally their application in industry. He said that starting with physical principles there follows a region where commercial possibilities are followed by one of actual commercial application; it was further stated that this region of commercial possibilities may either follow or precede physical principles.

In proceeding Mr. Mills said that it was very difficult to find any dividing line between the physicist and the engineer. He said that most of the great physicists have not seen in any great measure the commercial possibilities of their inventions, in fact, some have even regarded them as scientific toys. It remained thus for the engineer to make application of these principles, inventions and possibilities, an outstanding example being Signor Marconi. It was also brought out that some physicists had foreseen and illustrated the possibilities of their discoveries to engineers. To take examples of physicists who were able to apply their inventions were Kelvin in England and S. P. Langley in America.

Mr. Mills then followed out the development of industrial research on this continent, with special reference to the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, where there are hundreds of trained scientists or engineers. Industrial laboratories for research provide points of contact frequently lacking for the non-industrial physicist. The speaker made it clear that in these laboratories the research atmosphere of pure physics is surrounded by an air of commercial possibilities and a fusion and intermingling is inevitable, that the physicist and engineer are able to exchange ideas and opinions with each other. "The physicist," he said, "is thus getting directing his knowledge into fields that are likely to be productive." This he pointed out was not a bad thing. In the industrial laboratory, Mr. Mills said, the physicist had a psychologically balanced job, he experienced the joy of pure research and discovery, and the satisfaction of seeing the idea he initiated being carried through to a practical application. The physicist thus, not only loses his position as a scientist and his work produces a big product, commercial and industrial results.

The engineer and the physicist, Mr. Mills said, are not restricted, their interests tend to overlap, although that of the one leans toward further discovery, the other toward practical application. An example of this, he pointed out was the development and perfection of the vacuum tube.

The speaker further pointed out that in the industrial laboratory we have course but no candidate can be commissioned until a year's workshop training has been completed and he has fulfilled the other conditions applicable to candidates for the Royal Engineers. An officer, on joining the Tank Corps will receive corps pay, in addition to regimental pay. If qualified in the examinations for Associate Member, Institution of Mechanical Engineers. From replies received from the Universities, it appears that Cambridge and McGill Universities alone include workshop training in the University degrees mentioned, and therefore, under existing conditions, candidates from these two Universities are the only ones who can obtain commissions immediately on coming down.

GIRLS ENJOY PHILOSOPHY OF CLOTHES

Prof. Teufeldroekh Gives Fascinating Lecture

ANCIENT CUSTOMS

Stiff Collars From Five to Eight Inches High

The Modern stiff collar—in its relation to the dog-collar—such was the subject of Prof. Teufeldroekh's address last evening when he addressed the "Philosophical Society" in the Gaiety Theatre. This is the opening lecture of a series on "The Philosophy of Clothes."

"All modern scientific facts now point to the conclusion that there is a close connection between these two popular makes of collars," says Prof. Teufeldroekh.

The lecturer sketched the history of the collar from very early times. The first type of collar was worn by the slaves and serfs in the days of Merry England. These collars were of iron and were almost as stiff and uncomfortable as the ones our fellow creatures are suffering in to-day.

Slaves began to achieve their freedom and discard their collars. The second-hand shops of the world were flooded with perfectly good collars. To prevent national financial ruin, a use had to be devised for these articles. The government took up the matter and decreed that married men ought to have some mark by which they could be distinguished from other men. Accordingly, a man on his wedding day must don a collar bearing the name of the woman who has to be his future owner. Thus the dual difficulty of ownership of husbands and government control of collars was solved.

But women were continually running the risk of losing a still more cherished possession—their dogs. A few collars were still on the market, the collar system had worked admirably in the case of husbands, why not try it on dogs, also? So dogs and masters went forth together, and even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

However, this Utopia could not last. Husbands protested: was it to be thus insinuated that husbands led a dog's life? Never! The genius, Heureka, brought himself into the public view and rendered his name immortal to all generations when he invented the white collar, stiff as a board and shaped like a stove-pipe. It fulfilled all the requirements but one. It was uncomfortable, hard to keep clean and expensive. Unfortunately, the only identification mark on the white collar was the laundry mark. On regarding a man's collar it was impossible to discover his wife's Christian name or the place of their residence.

The government again stepped in and passed a law regarding distinguishing marks marks for husbands. All married men must wear collars at least 5 inches in height while unmarried men must confine themselves in collars not more than 2 inches high as a sort of preliminary training.

Another step was made in the onward step of progress when the collar, long collar was invented. Here complications set in. When the collar appeared on the market they were all of uniform height 3 1/2 inches. Men, both married and unmarried, in defiance of the laws, adopted the new law. The political system of the country was overthrown. Unions of collar-men sprang into being, having for their slogan, "All men are equal. Uniform collars for men. Down with the 5 inch collar. Up with the 2 inch collar."

On all sides, the burning question was discussed, "Matrimony incurs many new expenses. Is it fair to hamper a young man by forcing him to buy a new collar when he enters the bonds of matrimony. His bachelor celluloid collar will last him a life time."

Accordingly the collar unions issued their declaration of independence. Henceforth men, both married and unmarried will please themselves as to the height of their collars.

For about 50 years after the declaration of independence the vogue of the celluloid collar continued. During this period, a new social class, the "newly-rich" developed. How could the "newly-rich" proclaim to the world at large that they had money? Only a rich man could afford to have white collars laundered—this new class reverted to the collars of a century before, and soon became known as the "white-collar class." A white collar was the outward symbol of untold wealth. Young clerks began to save their pennies to buy a white collar. To own a white collar was the peak of ambition to which most young men aspired. Nowadays, most young men have achieved their desire in so much that they have at least a white collar for Sundays. Especially favoured young men even own two or three stiff collars.

As for the poor dumb canines—they could neither protest nor follow changing fashions and so are still wearing the same type of collar as husbands wore when Knighthood was in flower.

SECONDS OUT TO WIN FROM CADET TEAM

Good Game Expected This Afternoon

CONDITION IMPROVED

Both Teams Present Strongest Line Ups

According to report the game this afternoon, at the Stadium should be one of the most interesting intermediate games of the year when the redoubtable cadets from Kingston meet the McGill seconds. Although the R. M. C. men walked away from McGill in their recent game at Kingston winning by a score of 26-0, the condition of the Seconds has improved greatly and they have been giving a good account of themselves in their daily practices with the Seniors.

The cadets are confident of repeating their victory and that they have an excellent team in shown by the fact that they have been practising with the Queen's Seniors' last year Dominion champions. The R. M. C. halves are a fast trio and can be depended on to make good in their end runs, while the line although not so good as McGill's excel in the interference line.

The following will be the line up.

TELEPHONY AND RADIO DISCUSSED

Mr. John Mills Handled Subject Clearly

Twelve o'clock yesterday noon saw a splendid turnout of both students and faculty in the Engineers Building when Mr. Mills of the Western Electric Co. gave his interesting talk on Frequency Relations in Communication Circuits.

In his lecture, which was illustrated with slides, Mr. Mills first outlined the underlying principles of telephony as it is today and by means of his wonderfully simple diagram and explanations was able to convey to the minds of his listeners a very clear picture. Having outlined the principles of the simple telephone he glided the speaker which is the device that made long distance communication possible and then he showed on a map the route of the longest conversation ever carried on, the speakers being located, one at Havana and the other on the Pacific Coast, the message travelling by way of New York and Chicago. He then traced thru the rudiments of what is known as carrier wave telephony and showed not only how alternating current is used for the messages but that by the simple application of different frequencies as many as five different messages are carried over the same wire simultaneously. Perhaps the most startling point in his lecture was in the tendency that the ordinary telephone and the wireless are taking and how they are rapidly converging till now the underlying principle of both are becoming one.

Such men as Mr. Mills are always appreciated by the "Engineers" and this was certainly no exception as was well shown both by the hearty vote of thanks tendered and by the indication of appreciation which the giving of the "McGill Yell" always carries.

The next activity of the Electric Club is expected to take the form of a lunch-sometime during the next two weeks.

Old Lady: "Are you sure you have time to show me through the penitentiary?"
Trusty: "Yes, ma'am. I have ninety-nine years."

Now I sit me down to sleep.
The lecture's dry, the subject deep.

Give me a punch, for goodness sake.

I dashed cold water in her face
Because the girl had tauted;
And found, alas, in woman's case
She's not as she is painted.

The Little Things

It is a general belief that life is made up of a few great outstanding things, while the truth of it is that it never is so in ordinary, daily life. Everyone is so much on the lookout for the great things that are to happen tomorrow that he fails to notice or to think about the things that make up today.

So far today, nothing great has happened; it was the same way yesterday, the day before, and the day before that. Thus it is practically every one of the 365 days of the year. Yet man lives on those days as well as on the eventful days, he enjoys life equally as well, and he performs those little duties that help to swell the total of each person's life.

It is the little things, or as Wordsworth called them, "The little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and of love, that give pleasure of our existence." Annoyances, discomforts, griefs are worn away by time, while pleasures leave a lasting impression in the mind. Indeed, man's psychology is such that he tends to forget the unpleasant and to remember only the pleasant. Hence the displeasures of today are forgotten tomorrow and mean nothing at all, while pleasures are always remembered, even if unconsciously so. It is the little ordinary things of life, the little pleasures, the little daily seemingly unimportant duties, the little help given and received, the little word of comfort and of encouragement that are remembered and that change the course of our lives.—Wisconsin Daily Cardinal.

In Silken Hosiery.

In silken hosiery, and painted fair
And slippers pinching at the toes,
She had no vulgar flesh to spare
In silken hosiery.

Her cheeks were like Moore's laggard rose,
Her clothing breathed Parisian air,
On neck and arm no clothing goes,
And beauty pulsed within her hair.
But ankles big—her worst of foes—
Laid all her imperfections bare
In silken hosiery.
